It is not free trade in legitimate commerce that is to be put down, but literally free trade in erime. I feel certain that the hove a suddressed to the Pope, who is the most preached at most preached

My purpose will, however, be an awered if what I have said has the effect of inducing you to pay some attention to matters which, apparently trivial is themselves, are, nevertheless, of great practical importance to the well-being of both communities and individuals.

How to Collect a Little Bill.—Some years ago David Britton, who is now enjoying his oftameum dig. at his pleasant villa on the south shore of Staten Island, was engaged in an extensive grocery business in this city. Mr. Britton desit in first-class articles, and enjoyed the patronage and acquaintance of Secretary Fish, Gov. Morgan, Commodore Vanderbilt and other prominent citizens. At that time the Commodore's mind was not oblivious to tran-sactions involving less than millions of dollars; fact, he scrutinized even his household bills with keen eyes.

The Commodore was in the babit of dropping into Mr. Britton's store once a month for the purpose of having a friendly chat and settling his bill. One afternoon he came in apparently in a great burry, ex-All right, Commodore; here are the items foot-the bill.

I feel certain that the naval and military authorities will do their best to aid the exertions of the public and that the Consuls will readily do their best to assist in the checking of an evil which so fatally affects the mercantile marine; and the Japanese Government must follow the lead row of the nave, and thought the multitude would never the dusty highway, caressed and screamed at all the checking of the pace is not ruinous, yet the little necessary to be from ecclesiastics of all ratios, monks of all orders, done it somehow got through, and under that Let the commencement of conjoint action take this direction. It is one that interests all classes and all jackets and goatskin breeches. Emerging into light tailed and a bed on nature's carpet, with a scanty nationalities, and the success which I am certain must attend it will best demonstrate its value. Measures of police and of public health will then naturally follow and streets full or ments and priests—no doubt many and instead of disunion there will be good Government.

I have only incidentally touched upon some of the soldiers, tourists, and ladies in full dress, down to the I have only incidentally touched upon some of the leading subjects that have engaged my attention during subjects that Church that the Pope communicated. The Man with the lines Mask.—What a grand stimulant to literature is curiosity! Who but really well-read men would know ought of Junius's letters now, had he not written and acted upon the famous sentence: "I am the sole depositary of my own secret, and it shall die with me."

There is in the lives of almost all of us a Junius and Man of the Irou Mask period. It seems, however, that the rising generation is not to enjoy, in these respects, the privileges of their progenitors, for we are threatened with a real revelation of the first of these fascinating mysteries, and the second has, it seems. fascinating mysteries, and the second has, it seems, been just finally settled by an accomplished French writer. M. Maries Topin, who has quite Intely published a very interesting work, elucidating this vexed

M. Topin has made most painstaking researches, and, it is said, discovered original documents relating to the puzzling pris-ner, which prove him to have been a person whom very few of us probably ever heard of before, or are likely ever to hear of again, one Count Matthioly, Minister of Charles, fourth Duke of Mantan It seems that this man had involved himself in in

"All right, Commodore; here are the items footed up."

Vanderbilt glanced down the list until he had nearly reached the bettom, when he ejaculated:
"How's this, Britton? I never ordered those things."

"What things?"

"Brandy, wines, elgars, sardines, anchovies, erushed, sugar, lemons, etc."

"Why, yes, Commodore, you ordered them two days ago. Young Cornele came after them with thight wagon. I suppose you were going to have an evening party."

"Party be hanged! He had a party-somewhere, I reckon, and a nice one if must have been. He was slek all day yesterday. Serate the things off must pay the bill, Commodore," replied Mr. Britton, firmly.

"You will never get that money out of me, Dave Britton."

"I will get it out of you. Commodore," replied Mr. Britton."

"I'll ser you hanged first; you were a foot to let him have them," roared the now irate Commodor of the bill.

It is needless to say that young Cornele never settled that it little bill. It was inserted regularly in the Commodors, was a little seems that this man had involved himself in intrigues with Louis XIV. In regard to the beave, of tall, and that the should be surpaid to be dead and, and the sire of brook this get reflect to be dead, and the curious expedient was adopted which has given rise to more than a century's conjectures.

M. Topin has found a hitertounpublished despatch of Louis, which entirely agrees chronologically with the errors of the author seems to have traced out the history step by step, with the diligence of an English lawyer getting up dormant peerage claims. He has discovered that the prisoner arrived in Paris from the Isles of St. Maryaret with M. St. Mary, the newly sponinted Governor of the Bastile, on the 18th of St. Paul, near the Bastile, on the little out the circumstances of th

Commodore's account for some three years. Regularly the two old friends had-their little encounter over it. It served to keep their blood in a healthy circulation.

Finally the Commodore ceased to visit the ctore, when Mr. Betitton sent the bill to the bluff old Commodore at stated letervals by his son Aleck, who possessed as much firmness and determination as his father. The Brittons were bound to triumph or die in the attempt.

One evening Aleck found the old Commodore in good humor. He had just returned from a drive after passing everything on the road. This was before Bonner had bought Dester.

"Well, Aleck," said the old sport, "your father sticks it out pretty well on that bill; when does he expect to get the money?"

"Oh, he's in no great burry, Commodore; he says it will be a pear or more yet before it is out-lawed. There is plenty of time to stick on compound interest and place it in the hands of the lawyers."

The Commodore hesitated a moment, and then quietly remarked "Aleck, I'll settle up that old ancount while I have the moosey is my pocket; but just tell Dave Britton that if he ever lets that young rascal have another dollar's worth of goods I'll see him in Tuphet before be'll get a cent out of me."

Capt. Aleck Britton served his country well in the late war, but no affair ever gave him more satisfaction than the victory over the sturdy Commodore.

For forty years I have been afficted with costiveness, and for the last twenty was compelled daily to resort to injections to secure an eracuation. In December last I commenced the use of Radway's Pills. After taking a few doses, my liver, stomach, and howels were restored to their natural strength and duties. I have now a regular increment once a day, and, although 60 years of age, feel as hearty and strong as I did 40 years ago.

Price, 25 Cents. HIGH ENDORSEMENT FROM THE MEDICAL COLLEGE OF PRUSSIA. DR. RADWAY

Is in receipt of an important official docu-ment, signed by the Professors of the Medical College of Breslan Prussia, embodying the result of an analysis of RADWAY'S REGULATING PILLS. "The Faculty of the College state in their report that ofter a serial and minute size, they have the honor to state that "the pills are not only free from every substance injurious to health, but are composed wholly of substances and elements promotive of direction, and certain at the same time to of anostances and seneral promoter of digestion, and certain at the same time to act favorably upon the nervous system, &c., &c. They state, further, that the injurious rumors set affeat by the Prussian apothecaries originated "in a mean spirit of trade jealousy, excited by the great celebrity attained by the Pills within a very brief period."

Signed on behalf of the College, DR. PHIL. THEOBALD WERNER, Director of the Polytechnia Bursau.
DB. HESSE, First Assistant

INDICESTION ! In cases where natural evacuations are difficult to secure, and a quick discharge is essential, take six of Radway's Pills and putveries them,—take the pill powder in water or preserves,—in half an hour they will operate. We have known the most distressing pains of Gastritis, Billious Cholic, Infisiantiation, Congestion, &c., stopped, and the relained irritating humans expelled from the bowels in thirty minutes by this treatment. It is however, better in curonic cases to take the pills as they are, and let them gradually dissolve in the stomach. These Pills possess in the highest degree cathartic, aperions, tonic, and dispharetic properties. They do do not weaken or debilitate the system or any of its organs, and will leave the bowels regular and healthy. They purify and equalize the circulation of the blood. No congestion or inflammation will occur while the system is under their influence. Price 15 cents per box, or 5 boxes for one dollar.
